

FAR-REACHING CHANGES IN TARIFF IN EFFECT AS WILSON SIGNS BILL

PRESIDENT PLACES SIGNATURE TO UNDERWOOD-SIMMONS
MEASURE AT 9 O'CLOCK
TONIGHT.

IMPORTANT FEATURES

Long List of Staple Products Added to Free List Cutting Down Revenue Production in Spite of Income Tax.

Washington, Sept. 3.—President Wilson signing of the Underwood-Simmons bill at nine tonight brings into effect one of the most far-reaching revisions of tariff rates and revenue laws enacted for many years. A new income tax, applying directly to the incomes of citizens; the abolition of all tariff on scores of items of immense importance to American industry and American consumers; and a heavy reduction of tariff rates on most of the articles in general use in this country are its chief features.

While certain portions of the new law do not take effect at once, most of its provisions and almost all the direct tariff reductions, do.

At every port Collectors and Customs, Appraisers of Merchandise and hundreds of other employees of the treasury department will plunge at once into the task of collecting the national revenue on a new basis, and with hundreds of new classifications and new provisions of law to complicate their activities.

One-Third Revenue. The federal government has been spending nearly a billion dollars a year and the new tariff will raise less than one-third of that sum. Recent estimates by tariff experts in Congress predict that the rates will raise $249,000,000 a year; and that the income tax will raise $109,000,000. The remainder of the government's great income is made up principally of internal revenue taxes and postal receipts.

The income tax probably will bring the new tariff law most forcibly to the attention of citizens. President Wilson and Democratic leaders in Congress believe that the new law will bring a reduction in the cost of living, and materially affecting business prosperity.

Summary of Provisions. A brief summary of the new tariff law as prepared for the senate follows:

Average percentage of tariff rates as compared to the value of all imported merchandise; old law 37 per cent; new law 27 per cent.

Value of animal imports added to the free list $147,000,000. Estimated revenue from all import rates: old law $305,000,000; new law $249,000,000.

Estimated revenue from corporation and income taxes: old law $37,000,000; new law $109,000,000. Altogether, consumers in the United States probably will receive from abroad free of all tariff, more than $1,000,000,000 worth of merchandise during the next year.

Free List. During 1912 the amount of "free imports" was more than $880,000,000, and when the tariff is entirely removed from wool, sugar, iron ore, and cheap iron, and other important items, it is expected that the increase notably. Under the old law more than 50 per cent of all goods brought to the United States from all parts of the world paid no tariff, and that proportion will be increased by the new law.

The new wool provision of the new law takes effect December 1, 1913; the free sugar provision May 1, 1916. The new tariff law, passed four years after President Taft signed the existing Payne-Aldrich law, the result of more than nine months of work in Congress. Hearings were started January 6, by the House Ways and Means Committee, Chairman L. D. Underwood introduced the tariff bill April 7, immediately after President Wilson had convened the new Congress. It passed the House May 8, and the Senate September 3.

Feature. In the opinion of its makers, the Democratic leaders of congress, the most important features of the new tariff are:

A reduction of nearly one-half in the average tariff on food-stuffs and farm products.

The placing of raw wool on the free list, and a reduction of nearly two-thirds in the tariff on woolen clothing, especially of the cheaper grades.

Reduction of one-third (average) on cotton clothing.

Reduction of the sugar tariff and its ultimate abolishment in 1915.

A reduction of one third (average) in the tariff on earthenware and glassware.

Abolishment of all tariff on meats, fish, dairy products, flour, potatoes, coal, iron ore, lumber and many classes of farm and office machinery.

Abolishment of tariff on all important articles in general use.

Republican Attitude. Throughout the long fight over the bill, the Republican attack on the measure as been directed against the tariff rates which the Republicans declared were so low as to threaten destruction to American industries, through the competition of foreign manufacturers. The Democratic supporters of the bill have insisted that except in those cases where public life welfare demanded radical changes the tariff has been reduced only to a point where it will stimulate competition.

A great amount of work will fall upon the Treasury Department, it is expected, in working out the details of the new income tax and the methods of collecting the direct taxes from individual citizens of the United States. The tax upon corporations, now fixed at one per cent of their income, remains the same and becomes part of the general income tax law. A staff of special inspectors, collectors, and agents will be employed to organize and conduct the work of income tax collection.

IMPRISONED MINER REMAINS CHEERFUL

Thomas Toshesky Greets Announcement That He Must Wait Rescue Another Day With Resignation

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Centralia, Pa., Oct. 3.—It was estimated by the Lehigh Valley Coal company officials this morning that ten or twelve feet of solid anthracite coal remains to be cut away before rescuers will be able to reach Thomas Toshesky, the miner who was entombed in the Continental colliery one week ago today. It has been expected that the imprisoned man would be liberated about noon today, but he will doubtless have to spend another night or part of it in his little cell. The man is confined in a space seven feet wide by fifteen feet long. When told that he would likely remain a prisoner from fifteen to twenty-four hours longer, Toshesky replied cheerfully he would have to be satisfied. He again requested his rescuers to visit his family and cheer them up.

The imprisoned miner told the miners working to dig him out that he worked several hours during the night cutting away coal in order to free himself, but he was shot more soundly. He has very little sleep and is becoming extremely nervous. When told that he had been confined a week Toshesky said he hoped that it would not be more than another day until he could see his family again and his wife and four children.

Two of Toshesky's daughters are to be confirmed next Sunday and he hopes to be in condition to attend the service. Mrs. Toshesky was bitterly disappointed when told that her husband would not be with her today. She is satisfied, however, that he will be reached alive.

KAREL IN THE RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP HE DECLARES TODAY

Democratic Candidate at 1912 Election Stops Short of an Official Announcement at La Crosse.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

La Crosse, Oct. 3.—Admitting that he will be a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor in 1914, Judge John C. Karel of Milwaukee, stopped just short of an official announcement in an interview here today.

"Do you intend to seek the gubernatorial nomination next year?" he was asked.

"I am certainly going to do my part in aiding in purifying politics in this state," said Karel with emphasis. He added that an economical administration of state affairs in public interest was seriously needed in Wisconsin.

"But does this mean that you intend to run for governor?" he was asked.

"Well, it might be construed that way," was the reply. Dropping the subject suddenly Judge Karel launched into an enthusiastic account of the fan's frolic held at the Schlitz palm garden in Milwaukee last night and declined to say anything further on politics.

While here he met several friends and got a general idea of what the campaign would be in this part of the state in the next democratic gubernatorial election.

Women Make a Dollar Go Farther

Ever notice how much more the average woman will buy for a dollar than a man?

She seems to know how to make every cent count.

A woman is naturally inquisitive. She wants to know. She is not afraid to ask questions.

A woman likes "to shop around."

Today the large percentage of the advertising in the daily newspapers like The Gazette is written to women.

That speaks well for the character of advertising—both as to fact and phrasing.

Women are severe critics. They would not be fooled twice.

Advertising to appeal to women must be strong enough to strike their unerring sense of values.

OELRICHS DECLINES TO DISCUSS CHARGE

Refers All Inquiries as to Alleged Stabbing Affray to Attorneys—Released on Bail.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Oct. 3.—Young Herman Oelrichs remained in seclusion today, declining to discuss the charge made by Lucile Singleton, daughter of a Texas mining man that he had stabbed her on Tuesday night last just before the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a tree. He referred all inquiries to his lawyers who repeated what they had said yesterday and last night that the stabbing charge was ridiculous. They were equally emphatic in stating that no attempt had been made to "wash the matter up," and that no offers of money settlement to the girl had been made or would be made.

The girl kept to her room today awaiting the arrival of her father from Dallas, Texas. She is still suffering from the shock and from the wounds on her breast which Oelrichs' lawyers say were sustained when she was flung through the wind shield of the automobile.

Colombia University authorities it was learned today began an investigation to determine whether the facts warranted Oelrichs' dismissal as a student at the institution.

On Tuesday next the case will come up in the court. Oelrichs will be arraigned on a charge of felonious assault. Meantime he is out on $1,000 bail.

LA CROSSE SUICIDE TURNS OUT MURDER

Medical Experts' Testimony And Coroner's Jury Verdict Upsets Police Theory.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

La Crosse, Oct. 3.—The turning of the supposed suicide case of Thomas Rye into one of murder by testimony of medical experts and verdict of the coroner's jury leaves the police completely mystified and every effort is being made today to find a clew which will lead to the discovery of the assassin. Until Dr. Gunderson, who made the autopsy went on the stand last night it was the theory that Rye after a saloon quarrel had wandered away and committed suicide by drowning. Dr. Gunderson and Dr. Flynn swore that death was not caused by drowning, but by a blow upon the head from a heavy instrument. The jury then returned the verdict of murder by persons unknown.

The police are holding Nicholas Hefley, who had a quarrel with Rye in the saloon, but there is no evidence to connect him with the man's death and he will probably be released today.

SULZER COUNSEL IS BUSY WITH DEFENSE

Judge Herrick Goes into Retirement While Senator Himan Prepares Opening Statement.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Albany, Oct. 3.—Judge D. Cady Herrick, chief counsel for Governor Sulzer, who ever has been silent regarding the plans of the defense in the impeachment trial of the governor, went a step further today by going into retirement. Senator Harvey D. Hill, who will make the opening address for the governor, locked himself in his hotel room and continued working on his opening statement to be made on Monday.

The governor continued work on his own story. While he is consulting them on it in every way, he is insisting that he be permitted to make the fullest statement. The strain of the long trial is telling on the governor and sometimes he expresses the wish that the whole fight was over, not because he is afraid of the outcome, but because the tension is so great and the work is so hard.

"But now I am in the fight," he said to a friend, "and I am going on to the end. Let come what will, I am going to tell my story in my own way. Mine will be an astounding narrative and when I have completed it and the whole truth of the manner in which political bosses have tried to coerce me and killed is known, every decent man and woman in this state will be with me despite what the court may do."

SCHMIDT IN FRENZY HELD AS MURDERER

PRIEST FLIES INTO RAGE AT CORONER'S INQUEST IN NEW YORK TODAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NO DELAY IN VERDICT

Jury Finds Prisoner Responsible for Death of Anna Aumuller—Murder Trial to Follow Quickly.

New York, Oct. 3.—Hans Schmidt, the priest who murdered Anna Aumuller, became frenzied today at the coroner's inquest into the death of his victim. He rose from his seat, ripped from his neck the rosary he had worn ever since his incarceration, tore it into many bits and hurled them at the newspaper reporter sitting half a dozen steps away. The jury found him responsible for the girl's death.

Schmidt's outburst of temper occurred in the presence of a jury of millionaires empaneled to conduct the inquest. The verdict was quickly found. It follows: "The jury believe that Anna Aumuller came to her death on September 2nd, 1913, at No. 88 Broadhurst avenue at the hands of Hans Schmidt."

Schmidt was immediately remanded to the Tombs without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

Theodore P. Shorts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, was foreman of the jury. His fellow jurors seemed to laugh at Schmidt's Bursburg, a cigar manufacturer and E. S. Marston, a banker. Only three members of the body, the upper and lower torso and one leg have been recovered from the river. They were viewed by the jury.

Sure Schmidt is Sane. District Attorney Whitman expressed his conviction today that Hans Schmidt is sane and consequently will be placed on trial for the murder of the Aumuller girl. Mr. Whitman's opinion it is understood, is based on the findings of the four psychiatrists who examined Schmidt in the "Potters" hospital.

Their formal report will soon be made. During the examination of the witnesses not a trace of emotion crossed Schmidt's face and Coroner Feinberg's face seems to lack the prisoner into a sudden tempest of fury. Jumping to his feet, his eyes blazing and his lips moving, Schmidt tore the rosary from his neck with a single stroke and hurled it at the jury. The detectives could stay him had snatched it into many parts and hurled them at the newspaper men.

Details Confession. The torso of this victim was identified by Anna Hirt who roomed with the Aumuller girl at the parish house of the St. Boniface's church. The Hirt woman was followed on the street by detectives. The physicians who made the autopsy, and finally Inspector Faurot, in charge of the detective bureau here, to whom Schmidt confessed. Faurot detailed in a hundred words or less the substance of the confession.

"Do you wish to place your client on the stand?" Coroner Feinberg next asked counsel for Schmidt. The answer was in the negative. "The prisoner answers that he killed that Schmidt," would testify, asked if the priest had nothing to say. "Nothing whatever," replied the lawyer.

Coroner's Charge Brief. The coroner's charge was brief. He told the jury that it could find that Anna Aumuller came to her death at the hands of an unknown person or that she was killed by a person. The jury was asked if Hans Schmidt does not appear before you on trial for the murder," he said, "you are simply to find a verdict as a coroner's jury."

Counsel for Schmidt issued a statement that the prisoner was sane and that his client's outrage had been provoked by the coroner who had made "a holiday" of the inquest and had appealed to public spirited citizens for funds to bury Anna Aumuller. Schmidt resented this, he said, and hurled his rosary and some coins at the newspaper men because he thought they were laughing at the coroner's unusual appeal.

POLITICAL DECAY.
Former Governor Hoard sees a political decay of the democratic party in the ending of the existence of that newspaper through its purchase by the Gazette. Governor Hoard takes occasion to rap the progressive tendencies of the state democratic organization and treats the whole matter as a political one throughout. He writes:
"The Janesville Recorder, which, for thirty-six years until recently has been consistently democratic in all its discussion of public questions has suspended publication for lack of support. It strikes us there is a reason for this in the drift of politics in this state. The American people have always believed that there are two sides to any question. They have always believed in the value of a healthy opposition party to which they could appeal in case the majority party went wrong. But there is no such party in Wisconsin now. The dry rot of progressivism has poisoned the very core of the democratic party."

"It is equally certain after a time to destroy the bastard republicanism of the dominant party now in control of the state for the reason that it is all collar and no breeching. It has cast behind it all conservative good sense and has embarked upon a wild, terribly expensive scheme of government that contains not a whit of true republican doctrine either in theory or practice."

"The democratic party has listened to the same false leadership from such men as Joe Davies, Huston, Ayward and Schmidt. Davies sent word to the democratic members of the legislature last winter to fail not to be progressive. Well, the people if they have got to suffer under the abuses of progressive government prefer to let the old gang run the machine awhile yet. They can see nowhere in the political horizon a party of conservative opposition. A democratic progressive is ridiculous proposition to start with. Because they are neither hot nor cold, the people will spew them out of their mouths in due time."

"There is plenty of room today for a vigorous opposition paper in Wisconsin, one that will attack the present destructive tax burdening administration, repudiate the namby-pamby slushy socialism of La Follette whether it pose under the name of republican or democrat. The people are becoming sick and tired of this bastard sort of politics."

"No wonder then that such a staunch old paper as the Janesville Recorder goes to under. It has followed false gods and there is no longer any good, red blood in its veins."

STREETS AND SIDEWALKS.
One of the duties of the city administration is the care of the streets and sidewalks. During the past summer there has been more or less repainting in oiling various streets of the city. Like the case of the famous survivor of the Forty Thieves of Arabian Nights fame, in some cases the oil was off the oil or the oil was off the oil, for the sticky mess poured onto the streets has done practically little good. Oiling streets is a scientific method of preserving roadways. Its value is acknowledged by road-builders throughout the world and perhaps after several years of experiment by an inexperienced street commissioner's department, Janesville may recognize its value. One of the new streets that is in right-of-way condition and should be repaired immediately is the street traveled by those who go to their last sleep at Oak Hill and Mr. Olivet cemeteries. Evidently this street did not have enough binding material to make it lasting. It is filled with ruts. Another roadway that is in disgraceful condition is Magnolia avenue. The roadway was not crowned and by spring it will be in as bad condition as ever. From streets one can go to sidewalks and investigate the patchwork affairs in the parks, where the old tar walks have worn out and are patched with cement. Where they have not been patched and are dangerous to pedestrians, full of holes to trip the unwary. If a poor widow owns a little cottage and her board walk is out of repair, she must perhaps mortgage her home to put down a cement walk. She must put a further mortgage on her home to have the street improved and then the work done is not satisfactory at that. There should be a revolution in the handling of the streets and the sooner it comes the better. The tax-payers are paying out thousands of dollars in salaries and work and they are not receiving their money's worth.

The state fair board is still trying to decide whether Milwaukee is to blame for the fair not being a success or whether it was moved from Milwaukee it would be as big a success anywhere else. Meanwhile the city of Milwaukee abuses the board for not letting Milwaukee run the whole shabang.

Wisconsin is on the map this year with bumper crops and the "poor farmer" can now buy automobiles and light his farm buildings with electricity without any serious inconvenience.

Millwaukee is having an epidemic of forgeries and alleged abuse of personal confidences by prominent young men who sought to get rich quick without taking into consideration the laws of the state.

Bryan pays no more attention to the abuse heaped upon him by the press of the country than does the republican state administration in Wisconsin. Both are immune as long as they get their desires.

Congress has decided to pass the tariff measure as decided upon, and aided by republican senators' votes will accomplish their desires.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE IS "SYRUP OF FIGS"

They love to take it and it doesn't harm the tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

WORKMAN IS INJURED FROM FALL IN RIVER

Frank Brockhouse of Watertown Falls From Plankway and is injured by Wheelbarrow.
While at work wheeling a load of coal over a narrow plankway at the unfinished Milwaukee street bridge at five o'clock Thursday afternoon, Frank Brockhouse of Watertown slipped and fell into the river ten feet below. He was severely bruised by the wheelbarrow which followed him into the river.

Brockhouse was unable to swim and the blow on the head stunned him so much as to render him helpless. Workmen on the collar-dam hearing the splash and seeing the grave danger of Brockhouse hastened to his aid with a rowboat.

The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. P. D. Weich, where his wounds were dressed. He suffered an ugly cut on the head and the skin was completely peeled from his nose.

Just now the Big Store is receiving many bouquets on its general beautiful appearance. Several have told us that the store never looked prettier. The windows are attracting much well merited attention and many think them equal, if not ahead, of any previous times. It takes ability to put in such windows and we feel that our trimmer has just reason to feel proud of them. The Opening and Style Show is an event that means much labor and expense and that our efforts are appreciated is very gratifying. Come tomorrow and enjoy the beauty of the displays throughout the store and listen to the music of the Hatch orchestra, either afternoon or evening.

BIG DEMONSTRATION ON FARM PROBLEMS

Domestic Science Lectures for Women Will Be Feature of Picnic at County Farm Saturday.

A demonstration meeting will be held at the Rock county asylum farm Saturday of this week from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Representatives of the state agricultural college co-operating with the county board have arranged for some instructive field crop demonstrations. The work will be under the direction of Prof. C. P. Nordford, who thus far this year has conducted a series of twelve demonstrations on county and state farms.

The field tests are designed to demonstrate the value of liming the soil, of proper culturing methods, of planting properly cured seeds and seed corn, and of developing high yielding varieties of grain and other crops. Prof. Nordford has been assisted in these demonstrations by Supt. D. M. Barlass of the Rock county institution.

Prof. George C. Humphrey of the animal husbandry department of the college will talk on some phase of stock raising and will give demonstrations of profitable and unprofitable types of farm animals. Messrs. Nordford and Barlass will have charge of the crop demonstrations, and Miss Annabelle Turner of the domestic science department of the state university will meet the women for discussions on the purpose and purchase of varieties of textiles.

We extend to the men of this city and vicinity, the more the merrier, a cordial invitation to call and pass judgment on our fall opening and style show which continues through Saturday. You may find a few surprises—Make yourselves at home; see the second floor, basement and store generally. Do not be backward about coming forward. Music afternoon and evening.

The Convincing Qualities OF Bixota Flour

has made it hundreds of thousands of friends. There are many of these qualities.

WHY? Because it is 15 years ahead of present day flours and the claim proves itself on trial.

WHY? Because it tastes decidedly, delightfully different.

WHY? Because it makes bread that is flaky, tasty, delicious.

WHY? Because it makes bread, that is free from soggy-ness, heaviness or lumps.

WHY? Because it makes bread, biscuit, pastry, dumplings that not only satisfy but delight the family and guest.

WHY? Because the extra quality of the gluten holds the moisture, insuring fresh bread, biscuits, etc., it makes more of them.

We claim Bixota Flour is the best in the land. We ask that you try one sack from your grocer. If he hasn't it he will get it for you. And if you're not thoroughly satisfied after one baking you can return the rest of the sack and your money will be refunded.

One baking convinces—Get your family's judgment.

Fashion's Hobby Is Lines

In the past a woman went to a custom tailor, so that she would be sure of getting a garment with good lines. That is not so now—a-days when she can choose from such noted tailors and designers lines as we carry.

When you desire a suit, you can choose no better than a J. M. Brady or Turkel & Felstner suit. Quality and style will be seen at first glance.

And should you desire a coat something a little out of the ordinary, where style, materials and quality are first considered, an E. J. Wile garment will answer all requirements.

For those who desire a strict afternoon or evening dress we offer two beautiful lines—Nat Goldstone and E. Sperling & Co.

The chic given to these dresses by the designers and tailors is their appealing feature—it marks the span between the usual and the different.

In all these garments its the style and quality that makes our prices comparatively low.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

DEPENDABILITY.

MOLLY, the little Stenographer-Lady was going to a dance. For this important occasion she was to have a new gown, an event quite as important as the dance itself. She was telling us all about it on the night before and we asked if we might see it.

"But it isn't done," said Molly. "Mrs. Martin is going to bring it around tomorrow afternoon."

"But suppose she doesn't get it done," said the Author-Man's wife, agitated. "How do you dare leave it until then?"

"Because I know Mrs. Martin," answered Molly serenely. "If she says she will have it done she will. I am no more anxious about it than if I had it in my own clothes press."

"What a very splendid quality dependability is, to be sure!"

How much more useful and valuable it makes other good qualities!

How many talents, what great abilities, what fine qualities of character are weakened and made infinitely less valuable because they are not combined with dependability!

We all know workers of one sort or another who are capable of brilliant things, but who are passed by in favor of others less gifted because they cannot be depended upon.

Unreliability is the rotten place at the heart which spoils the fairest seeming fruit. While a reputation for dependability is like the mark "sterling" which fixes an unchangeable value on all which it is stamped.

"Oh yes, I know it's true, because so and so said it."

"Of course it will be done right, so and so is going to do it."

"Of course she'll do it, she promised to—"

What splendid things these are to have said about one! Occasionally something occurs to bring one of the popular songs of fifteen or twenty years ago to my mind. Whereupon I am inclined to think the world is deteriorating, for surely the cheapest of them was never such absolute meaningless trash as the popular songs of today.

No, kind reader, I have not suddenly taken leave of my senses and forgotten my subject. These reflections are more or less apropos because I'm going to quote a popular song of fifteen or twenty years ago. I wonder how many of you remember "When Maggie Dooley Sweeps the Floor, You Can Bet That Floor is Clean." That used to be thought trash, didn't it? But it certainly sounds sensible beside, "I should worry like a hen and scratch all day without a pen" or half a dozen others I could name.

But why mention Maggie Dooley now? Because I like the way that funny little song celebrates the quality of dependability.

Somewhat Maggie Dooley was always more of a reality to me than "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," or "Seeing Nellie Home" or any of her more sentimental sisters. I have a sub-conscious picture of her as a hearty Irish lassie, with bright blue eyes and a wide, pleasant mouth, and her sleeves rolled up over dimpled elbows.

"When Maggie Dooley Sweeps the Floor, You Can Bet That Floor is Clean." Despite the slang, it's a very good thing to have said of one, isn't it? I'd like to have its counterpart said of me and my work, wouldn't you?

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Who was the first person kissed?

(2) Who was the first musical composer?

(3) When and where did the Indian originate?

(4) Why do people say "dressing" chickens when it is really "undressing" them?

(5) When is the "judgment day" supposed to pass?

(6) What person lived the greatest number of years?

GRUMBING.

(1) I can't remember back that far.

(2) History gives no accurate statement.

(3) This has never been decided. I judge you refer to the American Indian.

(4) The word "dressing" in this connection does not refer to clothing, but means the getting ready of the fowl for the occasion.

(5) Different sects have set different times, but Christianity as a whole seems to think that when Christ comes again he will bring the judgment day.

(6) Methuselah, according to 'Biblical testimony.'

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of seventeen and am trying to lead a Christian life. I've had experiences with boys of all types and have succeeded in leading a great many to Christ. Not long ago I met a boy whom I admired, but I heard such dreadful things about him. I told him about them. Did I do right? I talked to him and begged him to take the girl he had wronged and shield her from her disgrace. He denied it all and used such slang in denouncing them that I couldn't help thinking it was so.

Then he seemed to gain control over his anger and begged me not to believe anything I heard, for it was all untrue. But, Mrs. Thompson, I have had so many people tell me the same thing that I can't help believing it.

He said he heard things on me. Do you think he did or was he merely making believe?

ONLY EVA.

My dear girl, put the boy out of your mind. He is undoubtedly as bad as you have heard and you can do nothing with him. I do not think he has heard anything bad about you. He simply wanted to hurt you. He doesn't want anything to do with you, and if you follow him up it would only do you harm. A girl of seventeen isn't old enough to go about reforming young men. The first thing she knows one of them will be reforming HER—and not in the right direction.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I came here seven months ago and have worked up to a responsible position and am making good money, but I know no young ladies, so I wish to know how to become acquainted with some nice girl who would allow me to call on her once a week to spend the evening. I am a young man, twenty-four years old and have excellent habits. How would you advise me to go about it?

(2) Also, what is your definition of love?

(3) Ask to be invited to the homes of some of your men friends who have sisters, or tell the married ones to ask their wives to introduce you to some nice girls. Visit around among them until you think you have found the girl you want to marry. Then go in and win. But don't single out a girl without any intention of marrying. It might bring suffering to her and it wouldn't be square.

(4) Love is a joyful unselfish devotion to one person with whom you wish to share all your life.

Daily Thought.

What your heart thinks great is great. The soul's emphasis is always right.—Emerson.

15 LOVE

A cartoon illustration of a man in a suit, holding a large heart and looking at it with a thoughtful expression.

WHAT SHALL WE EAT TO BUILD WORKING STRENGTH AND HEALTH?

I often wonder that the average woman who is so busy with her household duties and her work, does not know how to decide what to give her family to eat and be sure she is doing the right thing. Personally I don't believe she can without knowing something of her family's particular needs and then also a chemical knowledge of food and its relation to heat and digestibility in the body. Without this it is guess work all her life. It would be like asking the child in school to do a problem in fractions without knowing addition, subtraction, multiplication and division.

What can a woman of average intelligence do when one authority advises no meat in the family dietary and another as reputable just as strongly advocates all you want of every kind, but no condiments, for each salt is discovered to be a poison?

Not long ago two men, both prominent and both authorities, good-naturedly argued the subject of an ideal diet. One, altogether generous in phrase, stood for the comfortable theory that man does not eat too much except on holidays the next two days. His opponent, an evident scholar, but curiously enough, small in stature, as strenuously contended that Americans were killing themselves by overeating. Between the two schools thus represented it is not a question of a vegetarian or mixed diet, but of the amount which the body needs and can cope with, plus the quality and kind of food.

Back of the first man is the brain and sinew of past generations who have consistently practiced his comfortable theories; back of the second is the fact that civilization and so-called culture have produced a race of men and women with seemingly new requirements, physical as well as mental. Supporting him also is a series of remarkable experiments conducted at Yale university, the results of which show marked improvement in the physical endurance of men of all types who cut their rations practically in half.

The advocates of a liberal diet under certain experiments, learning that the diet naturally chosen by a large number of men living practically the same kind of life, and tried this diet upon individuals, by means of a delicate mechanism learning the precise amount of energy obtained from any given bill of fare.

The advocates of a more sparing diet argue that the assimilation of proteins (including meats) leaves substances which the system must rid itself thus entailing labor upon the kidneys and other organs—more labor, they believe, than the body is made to perform. When the wearied organs fall in this performance the result is gout, rheumatism or other disease. There are proteins in some vegetables, but there is little risk of an excessive protein supply in a vegetarian ration.

The experiments made by this class of scholars, however, lack the exactitude of those made by the first school. Their conclusions have been that men in all conditions of life gain in strength and in powers of endurance on a lessened food supply.

Below is given an excellent and most reasonable mince meat (without the meat) recipe which will appeal to that class of our readers who live as closely to the vegetable foods as possible. The pastry should be made from a vegetable fat and a delicious wholesome pie will be the result.

Material—Chopped apples, three pints; chopped green tomatoes, three pints; brown sugar, three and one-half cups; vinegar, one and one-half cups; seeded raisins, three cups; cinnamon, three teaspoons; cloves, one teaspoon; allspice, three-quarters of a teaspoon; salt, three-quarters of a teaspoon; butter, one-half cup.

Directions—Mix the chopped apples and drained green tomatoes and drain well from their liquor; mix the raisins cut in pieces; cook slowly three hours, then add the melted butter. If vinegar is too strong add some water, or cider may be used with a little brandy.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Often a machine needle which has a rusted or blunted point will be made as good as ever by rubbing it back and forth a few times on a whetstone.

To remove spots on china, bury the dish in the ash, covering it completely. The darker spots require more time to remove than the lighter ones. This method will not harm the most delicate china.

When paints have become scratched with matches rub them first with a slice of lemon and then wash with soap and water. This removes all traces of the match scratches.

Wash cut glass in warm water before polishing.

THE TABLE.

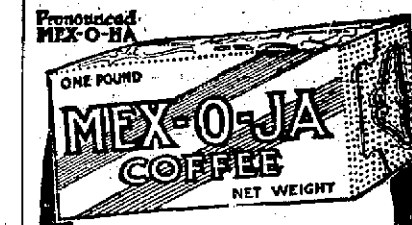

Pecan Pralines—Two cupsfuls of brown sugar, a quarter of a cupful of boiling water, one cupful of pecan meats, two heaping tablespoonsfuls of butter. Boil sugar and water together till thick, then add butter and cook for five minutes, remove from the stove and beat for one minute, then drop by spoonfuls onto buttered pan.

Corn Dumplings—Mix the contents of one can of corn chopped fine with one-half pint of milk, six level tablespoonsful of butter, two eggs, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half pint of flour or enough to make a dough that is easily handled, one teaspoonful of baking soda, with if the corn is dry, drop off small pieces of the dough the size of a butter nut and roll between the palms of the hands.

BRIDESMAID'S GOWN OF WHITE TULLE

This pretty bridesmaid's gown is of white tulle. The front of the blouse and collar is outlined with ermine. The front and back of the blouse are over laid with lace, simulating a bolero. The three-quarter length kimono sleeves are finished with cuffs of lace with fur. The skirt has sash ends of tulle edged with lace and fur, and a straight panel extends over the skirt at the front with sections of lace at upper and lower edge.

Good Coffee Costs Less

It's the poor coffee that's expensive. High grade coffee yields more cups to the pound than low grade—there is more strength in the high grade berries. And there's little satisfaction in coffee that lacks a full, rich flavor.

You are choosing a high grade coffee, but an inexpensive one, when you tell the grocer to send Mex-O-Ja.

From every pound you can make six cups of delicious coffee—more if you like it mild. The cost is less than a penny a cup.

Mex-O-Ja Coffee is packed in a special convenience bag, with a protector carton with broad green and red stripes.

The Price May Change—The Quality Never

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

By FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

One of my readers has sent in a recipe for flaxseed bread. I have read the Gazette for more years than I care to mention," she says, "and am glad to notice the way they are running home-helps. Please print my recipe as I am sure it is good, being laxative as well as wholesome. The recipe for flaxseed graham bread is as follows: To two cups of light sponge add one-half cupful of sugar, one tablespoon salt, two tablespoonsful melted butter or lard, and one cupful flaxseed meal. Beat all together and add one pint milk, heated in a little short of the scalding point. Into this mixture stir equal parts of graham flour and white flour until stiff enough to knead on the board. After kneading well, return to the bread pan and set in a warm place to rise. When light, make into loaves, let rise again, and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. This makes three good sized loaves."

Perhaps you know, perhaps you don't—that if you cannot succeed without getting soured you had better fail. The one who has friends only to use them has them to lose them.

That life always has a bad taste if you take all the frosting at the first bite.

That you may be sure you are not walking with God if men refuse to walk with you.

That one of the best ways of self-denial is denying one's self the pleasure of saying the worst about others.

Now that the fall in all its beautiful coloring, its schismatic red as dying ember, its drifting leaves, is with us, are we living up to the standard that we set for ourselves last spring of working our yards clean?

Drifting leaves—they are everywhere, and people who all summer took an honest pride in the well-kept appearance of their lawns, think nothing of scattering the leaves all over the place.

The neighborhoods that have the name, the reputation, of being first class, desirable, are so mainly because their yards are ever kept scrupulously clean—back as well as front. Apart from that sanitary side, the fact that your yard is—in a way—a criterion of your home, your life, is ample reason why it should be well cared for.

How is your yard looking today? Would it take first prize for its neatness, its trim appearance; or, is it what Chicago's health officer says many yards in other "city beautiful" areas—well front, swill behind?

Cleaning a yard that has been cared for as the average man cares for a yard is not a monumental task. Why not let the son do it? Why not have thirty minutes a day devoted to the systematic cleaning of your yard? The improvement will be marked. It will improve your son also. It will help to educate him in the school of usefulness. A boy that isn't trained to work as a child is, not going to succeed as well as the ladie, who early in life is given to understand that he must do his little share toward the successful running of the home.

Is your boy a strong link in your chain of home? Is he willing to work? If so, why not make him foreman of the yard?

THE STITCHES OF ART.

A Variety of Them Employed to Produce Harmonious Effects.

While the names of the various stitches required in embroidery work may appear formidable to the beginner, she need have no misgivings as to her ability to soon learn and apply them to any of the 150 beautiful designs contained in the Imperial Pattern Outfit now being distributed by "The Gazette."

In this outfit are included instructions, which are illustrated and enable the learner to easily master all the different kinds of stitches that are used, among which are the Outline, Chain, Seeding, Cat, Buttonhole, Couching, Satin, Eyelet Work, Wal-lachin Embroidery, Cross, Feather, Knots, Piqueting, Solid Kensington, and Roman Cut Work. Every woman who does home work can, after a little practice, manufacture her own embroidery, and at a cost that would represent but a mere fraction of what she would be obliged to pay for the work in the usual way. In addition to this advantage, which means dollars and cents saved, she can apply her skill to the ornamentation of many articles of her own clothing that hitherto she has always worn without this exquisite medium of decoration, mainly from the reason of the prohibitive prices invariably asked for high-class needlework of any kind.

Just at the present time there is a rush for the Imperial Pattern Packets at "The Gazette," which are handed out for 68 cents and six coupons and mailed for 7 cents extra, so the girl who intends to do embroidery should lose no time in getting this outfit, which, if bought in the regular way at 10 cents a pattern, would cost $16.00. Surely this latter value and the opportunity of obtaining it for a sum less than one-twentieth the amount should be sufficient to appeal to every lady who is at all interested in the pleasing results of the needle in skillful hands.

SEED CORN PROBLEMS

Mould and Frost Are Chief Sources of Seed Corn Trouble.—Selecting Best Ears in the Field.
(By Noyes Raessler.)

It is a comparatively easy matter to put up seed corn that will grow or at least germinate after it is planted. However, to handle seed corn in such a manner that the vitality is kept intact is an entirely different matter, and cannot be done unless special precautions are taken in harvesting, curing and storing.

Nature provides each kernel of corn with an abundance of vitality and plant food. This is used to sustain the young plant until the roots and leaves have developed sufficiently to manufacture the plant food necessary for further growth.

Now the strongest vitality is obtained when the corn has reached the maturity stage. This is not until the kernel has a glazed appearance and is usually between Oct.
1st and 15th in this section.

There are two things which injure the seed and are the chief source of most all the trouble with seed corn. These are frost and mould. The corn usually contains so much water at harvest time that a good sharp frost will often burst the thin cell walls of the germ and so weaken it that it is all the seed can do to produce an undersized stalk and possibly a nubb.

Mould is a disease which preys
on the life of the seed and places the stored up food in the kernel beyond the reach of the young plant, thus making it impossible to produce a good healthy plant and a good ear of corn.

Happily, there is one process which overcomes practically all the obstacles which injure the seed and that is curing with artificial heat. To be sure corn can be hung on the wind-mill and it will dry if left there long enough. It can be hung in well ventilated outbuildings and will make fairly good seed, but nevertheless, if placed on racks near the furnace or suspended from the ceiling the seed will be far better and will yield greater crops of forage and ears.

In selecting seed in the field, the stalk must be taken into consideration as well as the ear. The ideal stalk is of medium height, stands erect, and gradually tapers from the bottom to the tip. It should bear an abundance of foliage and a fair-sized ear. The ear should grow from three and one-half feet to four feet above the ground—a convenient height for picking. The shanks should be just long enough to allow the ears to droop slightly, so as to shed water well from the fall rains.

Of course, it may be a hard matter to find such stalks as I have described, but if this ideal is kept in mind, it will be easier to select the right kind of seed. The ears should be of medium size and cylindrical in shape. If Silver King is about nine inches in length, and Golden Glow eight and three-quarters inches in length, that is considered very good.
An overgrown stalk, or a large juicy oversized ear is undesirable.
As a general thing, such ears are low in vitality, hard to cure and should always be discarded.

The corn at harvest time contains from 30 to 40 percent of moisture, and this must be reduced to 10 or 12 percent before it can be safely stored away. The quicker this excessive moisture can be removed the stronger and better will be the seed. A well ventilated curing room with a fire going day and night will do the work effectively and quickly. Corn hung out of doors is subject to the damp night air and naturally requires a much longer time to cure, inviting mould.

Six weeks is long enough to fire
dry corn under ordinary conditions.
At the end of this time the ears should be so hard that a crackling sound can be heard when they are twisted.

Storing is fully as important as curing and will be taken up in my next article.

AGED WOMAN LOSES
PURSE ON PASSENGER

Mrs. John Morgan of Albany, Leaves
Pocketbook on Train Containing Thirty Dollars.

Is there a professional sneak thief plying his trade at the Janesville station of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and working on the various trains operating through this city?
Because of the frequent robberies recently the St. Paul officials are beginning to believe that such is the truth.

The latest case of petty thievery occurred at the local station Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. John Morgan, an aged woman, of Albany, Wisconsin, in company with her invalid husband whom she was taking to a hospital, was robbed of her pocketbook containing over thirty dollars on train number six due here before six o'clock in the afternoon. When Mrs. Morgan got on the train she left the purse on the seat. She discovered her loss on reaching the platform and immediately went back to her seat but the purse containing the money was missing. Complaint was made to the train officials and a thorough search was made by Mrs. Morgan and the train brakeman, but as nearly all the passengers had left the train, no trace of the missing pocketbook was found.
This is the fourth case of sneak thieves making small hauls at the St.
Paul station within the last month, and a half and as yet no clue has been obtained as to the identity of the guilty parties. Because of the great number of trains due at the station at the same time and the great number of passengers that change cars at the Janesville station it affords the "dips" an excellent chance to work.
Stringent methods are to be taken to stop the thievery.

MOSES' CRY FOR HELP.

(The Story.)

One of the proverbial after-sermon grumbles was, "Why does the minister always talk about those old Jews?
What have we got to do with them?"
The answer might have been, "Much every-way!" Although they lived so long ago and so far away, the Hebrews were human beings—just men and women—with hopes, fears, and frailties like our own. Their story is a cross-section of life. It is what life is in every age and everywhere. In this instance the story is peculiarly exemplary, instructive, corrective and inspirational. To any individual, or mass of such, seeking an ideal—ethical, social or spiritual—this pilgrim and pillar'd march is suggestive and helpful in the last degree. The point of fact is just a pictorial representation of humanity's age-long quest of the "ultimate good." No progress, either of the individual or the mass, is unbroken by moral lapses, more or less shameful. How true to nature in this instance, the stroke which represents the present ills of Israel as unbearable and magnifies the small comforts of Egypt into delicious luxuries! Pharaoh's bill-farmer included meat, fish, cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions and garlic.
Jehovah's just mentions manna. The complainers did not have sense enough to consider which menu was the better suited to the physical conditions that then maintained and, therefore, was most sanitary. They all had to matriculate in the expensive School of Experience. Pools will learn in no other. With the flesh fed richly, they "lusted" still between their teeth, multitudes of them died.
To picture an angry God as smiting
the people to death is intolerably in-worthy. God did not do it at all, except through the natural operation of those laws which are absolutely impartial. The soul that sins against these laws dies today by their natural operation. The proverbial longesomness of moral leadership has illustrated in Moses' experience. He felt that he was bearing all the people alone. And he was! Hear his pathetic cry to God: "Wherefore hast thou afflicted thy servant, and wherefore have I found favor in thy sight, that thou layest the burden of all this people upon me? Have I conceived all this people? Have I begotten them, that thou shouldst say carry them in thy bosom as a nursing child unto the land which thou swearest unto their fathers?"
The condition has a length become insufferable, but not before the psychological hour in which a nation of responsibility can be safely made. A moment earlier it would have been impossible. But seventy men can now be found who in addition to native executive ability, share the vision and spirit of Moses to such a degree as to make them serviceable. There was no arbitrary transference of Moses' spirit.
The call to service only quickened it and made the seventy conscious of its possession.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

The germ cells of elaborate rituals are found in Israel's simple matins
and vespers prayers and psalms.
At the opening of the day, before the march began, Israel turned his face toward God and with full voice chanted, "Rise up, Lord, and let thine enemies be scattered, and let them that hate thee flee before thee!"
When the day was done and the hour of repose was at hand, Israel turned his face once more toward God and cried, "Return, O Lord, unto the many thousands of Israel!" The splendid self-abasement and disinterestedness of Moses has emphatic illustration in this instance. It was reported to him that certain men who had failed to file the apparatus were yet prophesying. Joshua in his royal enthusiasm cried, "Silence them!"
But Moses' impartial reply was,
"Would God that all the Lord's people were prophets!" What Israel wanted was quails. That was not what they needed. The result was disaster—not God's drastic punishment, but physiological result of climate and diet. Natural law is often sharp and sudden in its reprimand. Here is money, not vengeance. Its operation is exemplary —warning—deterrent.

The phenomenon of quails is not wanting in current confirmatory parallels. Quails, spent by their long passage over the Arabian arm of the Red Sea, are picked up by the caravans of today. Reputable explorers have noted the passage of birds in such numbers as to darken the sky and make a roar like that of many waters. No finer example of skill in the use of motives can be found than in Moses' persuasion of his brother-in-law to accompany him to Canaan.

His first appeal, that of personal advantage to Hobad, failed. But, nothing daunted, he followed it up with another. "Hobad could be of advantage to others." It is a sure token of the moral nobility of the Cushite that this won him, while the appeal on the ground of personal advantage failed.
He knew the wilderness as intimately that he could be eyes to the pilgrim host, saving them from many a misery and adding incalculably to their comforts.

it reads: "Employers, give to your
